GRANT IN NEVADA.

THE SAME POPULAR ENTHUSIASM EVERYWHERE.

A Trip to Lake Tahoe--- Carson City in a Blaze--His Arrival at Virginia City.

NEW YORK, Oct. 27 .- A special from Carson, Nevada, yesterday, gives the following: General Grant's party, consisting solely of the General and Mrs. Grant, U. S. Grant, Jr., and the Japanese attendants, arrived at Truckee Station to-day, shortly after noon, where preparations had been made to take them from the special train on the Central Pacific and transport them in an old style, long spring, brace wagon six-in-hand, to see the beauties of nature by the dark waters of Lake Tahoe, one of the most beautiful places on the Pacific coast, or, indeed, anywhere in the country. There were enough railroad magnates and other gentlemen to fill the long wagon and three other car-riages. After three rousing cheers from the crowd and an attempt at "Marching through Georgia" by the band, the General lifted his hat, the jehu gave the word to his magnificent team, and the party was off for a most delightful excursion in the mountains. The distance from Truckee station is fifteen miles, over a road from which scenery, both rugged and beautiful, was presented, causing the General to remark that it constituted a pleasant change from the turnoil of the city, of which he had had on the road the driver, very proud of having the ex-President by his side, with the familiarity of western man-ners, asked him if he would not like to take the lines. To this the General consented, and drove the team at a quick rate for five miles of the route. On arrival at the lake the party was met by a number of ladies and gentlemen from this place. General Edwards made a brief speech o. welcome, after which the party took passage on a small steamer, and in an hour were landed at Glen Crook, where an open train, with two engines, richly decorated, climbed up the mountain side, giving the guests a most magnificent view of the forest lake. At Summit, only three miles distant from the lake, as the bird flies, but nine by rail, carriages were in waiting, and Hank Monk, of Horace Greeley notoriety, with four prancing grays, drove the General to the capital was in a blaze on the principal streets. Two bonfires, twenty feet apart, gave pleasant warmth to the welcome. In the morning the General will be pre-sented to the citizens. He leaves at noon for Gold Hill and Virginia, where a different welcome awaits him from any he has yet experienced.

ARRIVAL AT VIRGINIA CITY. VIRGINIA CITY, Oct. 27 .- The day was Grant. The town was astir at an early hour, and the streets by 9 o'clock were thronged with pedestrians. Houses were generally decorated. There was a large crowd at Gold Hill depot an hour before the advertised time for General Grant's arrival. It increased until there was hardly standing room in the vicinity, and houses and hilltops were covered with people. At two minutes to 2 o'clock the train reached the depot. The General came up in the palace car California" with his wife and son. Ulysses Grant, Jr., the Governor and his staff, and a number of ladies invited by the Carson committee. As he approached the depot steps great cheers from the crowd and a crash of music from the brass bands went up. He was met by Mayor Young, who delivered an appropriate address of welcome, to which General Grant replied with a bow and a word of acknowledgment. He was then led to a carriage drawn by six-in-hand, and the procession too up its march through the principal streets.

A special train with several car loads of Carsonites reached this city about fifteen minutes behind the train bearing Grant and his party. As the pro-cession was finally formed it reached over a mile. The school children of Virginia City and Gold Hill were stationed in two rows, through which the procession passed. A prominent fea-ture of the procession was Captain Sam, chief of the Pintes, and his braves, stripped to the waist and painted, numbering about thirty. General left his carriage on reaching the office of the Savage Mining Company and reviewed the procession from the east balcony of the building. In response to calls he spoke as follows:

FELLOW-CITIZENS: I am glad to meet you here, and I feel under many obligations for the fine reception you have given me. It is impossible for me to make a speech on this occasion. I am not like your Senators, who are in the habit of making speeches for the purpose of catching votes. I can't talk that

The last sentence received prolonged cheers. There were then loud cries for Senator Sharon and Senator Jones and Colonel James G. Fair, all of whom addressed the people briefly, after which the crowd gradually dispersed.

Distinguished citizens then paid their respects to the ex-President. A public reception will be held from 8 to 10 this evening. The General and Mrs. Grant are guests of Mr. McKay, and will tomorrow visit the mine.

From the Indian Country. Los Pinos, Col., Oct. 24, via Del Norte, Col., 28.—We have just arrived from the Indian camp on Plateau Creek. The women and children are safe at Chief Ouray's house. We left on the morning of the 22d. The Indians seemed unwilling to have us leave until they had learned what success General Adams had in stopping the fur-ther advance of General Merritt's comther advance of General Merritt's command. Mr. Meeker's papers were burned, and what money Mrs. Meeker had was taken from her by Douglas. Their intentions were to kill the women and children, as the windows of the room in which they first took refuge were riddled with bullets. They instantly left it for a more secure place in the milk-room more secure place in the milk-room. Mrs. Meeker thinks Susan, the squaw wife of chief Johnson, and a sister of Ouray did more than all the others to save their lives. She was as kind to them as a mother, and their parting was very touching. Jack's band fought the troops until the Douglas men killed the agent and employes. Agent Meeker was killed by Autelope and Waupattets. Mrs. Meeker was shot at while running from the house attempting to hide in a sage bush. The ball made a slight flesh wound in the thigh.

The arrangements for a fight with Merrit's command were most complete. Two hundred Arrapahoes had joined Jack with many others from neighboring tribes. Had it not been for the timely arrival of Chief Ouray's order to cease fighting, the name of Merritt and his command would have passed into history by the side of Cuspassed into history by the side of Custer with the same epitaph: "Annihilated by Indians," The outbreak may be attributed to four things, viz: Repeated change and lessening of the amount of rations issued to the Indians, there being no head chief the same as Ouray is here; a Ute Indian for an interpreter unfriendly to Meeker, and plenty of bad whisky which is furnished by ranchmen.

A Theory that Burr Sprang from the Balloon to Keep it from Falling. CHICAGO, Oct. 26.—The Coroner's inquest on the body of George Burr, the companion of Prof. Wise, the aeronaut, found at Miller's Station, Indiana, on the lake beach, resulted simply in a verdict of "found drowned." No coat, vest, necktie or boots were on the body. This may be accounted for on the hypothesis that on reaching the lake and finding the balloon falling, Burr took off his clothes and jumped into the water, trusting to his chances of reaching the shore, in order to give Wise an opportunity to reach Michigan with the "Pathfinder," A despatch from St. Louis gives an account of an interview with Charles E. Wise, son of the Pro-fessor. He finds it difficult to understand why his father kept the balloon

going when he and Burr came in sight of Lake Michigan. They must have seen the lake at least thirty miles before they reached it, he says, for it was a clear moonlight night on the Southern shore of Lake Michigan that night. He knew as well as any man living that the balloon would not keep up long enough to pass over the lake, and that it would be almost certain death to both for the balloon to descend into the lake. Young Burr might have been desirous of continuing the journey over the lake, being willing to run the greatest risks in order to make a sensational trip of it, but Professor Wise himself would most certainly never listen to any proposition of that kind. With the quantity of gas the balloon had when leaving Lindell Park and the amount of ballast taken, it could hardly keep up more than six hours, and the six hours were up when the balloon reached Lake Michigan. PROSPECTIVE MOVEMENTS OF GENERAL GRANT.

He will fix up affairs at Galena, and take up his Southern Tour---Raum's Anger.

Baltimore Sun, 28th. WASHINGTON, Oct. 27 .- A letter received to-day from a friend with General Grant says that the General expects to arrive in Galena about the 6th of November, and that he will open his house there and remain until the time of the Army of the Tennessee meeting in Chicago. He will stay several days in Chicago and then return to Galena to arrange some of his private affairs. After this he will go to an army reunion at Indianapolis, and after that may go to Des Moines. Iowa. He has a strong idea of passing a considerable portion of the coming winter in the South, particularly Florida, with possible visits to Cuba and Mexico. His plans do not include a visit to Washington at this time, but he may stop here en route to the South.

MR. RAUM'S LITTLE MISTAKE. Commissioner of Internal Revenue Raum expresses contempt for the request made for his removal, and says that the President and the Secretary of the Treasury indorse his interference in the politics of Virginia. He says, further, that if he can find any internal revenue official in Virginia favoring revenue official in Virginia favoring repudiation he will turn him out instanter. A day or two ago a clerk in the second auditor's office by the name of Foster addressed an open letter to Mr. Raum, denouncing him for his letter to Van Auken, the revenue official at Petersburg. Foster worded his letter as if he was a Virginian, but his appointment is credited on the Treasury books to Minnesota. Some of Mr. Raum's friends wanted him turned out. Raum's friends wanted him turned out for writing the letter, but Assistant Secretary Hawley intimates that this will not be done, although Foster may be gently admonished.

THE CENSUS. The superintendent of the census, General Walker, will in a few days con-clude the work of laying out the dis-tricts in the different States to be under the charge of the supervisors of he census. There are only 150 supervisors in all allowed by law, and New York will lead off with 11; Pennsylvania comes next with 10, and Illinois and Ohio with 8 each. Georgia, Kentucky, Tennessee and Virginia will have 5 each. North Carolina 4, Louisiana, Maryland, Mississippi and South Caro-lina 3 each; West Virginia 2, and the District of Columbia and the Territories 1 each. No city will have more than one supervisor. There are a vast number of applicants for these positions, but no appointments will be made until after the meeting of Congress.

MADISON.

MARSHALL, Oct. 24.—Owing to the dullness of the times I have not given you any news from Madison for several mouths. The farmers of the county have just finished the housing of their obacco. They have been blessed with fine weather for the business. It is said they have had unusually good luck in curing out their tobacco year's crop is equal in number of pounds to the crop of any previous year, and in quality it is far superior. We therefore anticipate big prices for our tobacco. Fine tobacco always brings a good price. Already there are men travel ing in the county in the interest of the Lynchburg warehouses. There is a good deal of competition among them for our tobacco. Of course we are glad to see it as it enhances the price of our tobacco. We are to have a warehouse in Marshall for the sale of leaf tobacco. It is to be built by a joint stock com-pany composed principally of the mer-chants of town. The primary object of the enterprise is self-protection, there being a warehouse under way of con-struction in Asheville. We hope also to pave the way for the manufacture of our tobacco at home. There is improvement in Madison in another direction. Mr. P. A. Cummings, attorney at law, has established a newspaper at this place, entitled Madison County News. THE JOHNSTON COUNTY TEACH-ERS' INSTITUTE. An Organisation Formed, Constitution Adopted and Committees Appointed.

Correspondence of the News. For the first time in the history of the educational interest of Johnston county the teachers in pursuance to a call made by B. W. Hatcher, county examiner, assembled at Selma Academy on Monday, October 20, 1879, and held a teachers' Institute for a term of six days. Fifty-one were enrolled and attended regularly. B. W. Hatcher, principal of Selma Academy, conducted the exercises in accordance with the plan of work; as directed by the University Normal School. The Institute opened with an address from the Principal, upon the objects, ends and purposes of Institute work, which seemed to inspire every teacher present with the highest zeal for the great work he had assumed in entering upon the duties and responsibilities growing out of the profession of teaching. Much interest was awakened among the teachers upon the subject of the necessity of a higher standard of qualification among the common school teachers of the county specially upon the improved and especially upon the improved method of teaching.

One of the principal and marked fea-tures of the work was to arouse all the teachers to the full importance of teaching everything by analysis and to discard set rules and formulas which are to children but language without meaning—in short to be sure to always teach the whys as well as the hows. Many new methods of teaching were introduced before the school to show the power the live teacher can or may exert over his school which cannot be exerted by the teacher which opposes Institute work and adheres to the old stereotyped methods of twenty years ago. The young teachers of the county are fully aroused to the importance and necessity of elevating the standard of qualification among our common school teachers and thereby elevating our common schools and rendering them more efficient for good in the future than in the past. The only regret ex-pressed was that the Institute could not continue twelve days instead of six.

The work of the Institute was closed by the organization of a county teachers' association, which led to the adoption of the following constitution:

CONSTITUTION.

ARTICLE I .- This association shall be called the Johnston County Teachers' Association, and its object shall be to perfect the public school system of North Carolina. It will not consider this object accomplished until (1) teachers are as well paid as other professions; (2) The school term lasts nine months year; (3) Neat and comfortable school ouses are built wherever needed; (4) The best text-books are adopted in every school; (4) The public school teachers are enabled to hold county institutes at least once a year for mutual improvement, consultation and co-operation; (6) Permanent and systematic normal instruction is provided for the public school teachers of the State.

ART. II .- Any teacher (white) or friend of education, of good moral standing, may become a member of this association by subscribing to the constitution and by-laws and paying an annual fee of fifty cents. ART. III.—The regular meetings of this association shall be at such times and places as may be determined by the president and the executive committee.

ART. IV.—The regular officers of this association shall be a president, three vice presidents, a secretary and assistant secretary, a treasurer, and executive committee consisting of one from each township which may be annually represented. All of which shall be annually elected on the first day of the first session in each year.

ART. V.—It shall be the duty of the president, and in his absence a vicepresident, to preside at all meetings of the association, decide points of order, preserve due decorum and regulate the exercises according to a programme furnished by the association. ART. VI.-It shall be the duty of the secretaries to keep a faithful record of the proceedings of each session of the ART. VII.-It shall be the duty of the treasurer to keep an account with the association of all moneys received and paid out. ART. VIII .- It shall be the duty of the president, after duly consulting the executive committee (a majority of which shall constitute a quorum) to give public notice of at least one month through the public press or by hand-bills of the time and place for the assembling of the association and to secure, if possible, all necessary instruc-tors and lecturers to make the exercises profitable and pleasant, and it shall be the duty of the secretary to issue to each teacher paying the annual fee a certifi-

ART. IX.-All regular officers shall be elected by ballot and a majority shall elect.

ART. X .- Any of the provisions of this constitution may be amended and new articles added thereto at any regular meeting by giving two days' previ-ous notice of the proposed amendment or addition, provided two-thirds of the members present vote in favor of such

After the adoption of the constitution the association then went into the election of officers for the ensuing year, which resulted as follows: President-B. W. Hatcher. Vice-Presidents-P. T. Massingill, E.

E. T. Phillips, George E Smith. Secretaries-Jasper V. Harper and Emma E. Bain. Treasurer-J. M. Beattie. Executive Committee-Dr. E. D. Snead.

R. Lambert, J. W. Godwin, J. P. Woodall, L. W. Corbett. The subject of text books having been referred to the appropriate committees the following report was made which was unanimously adopted by the Asociation: WHEREAS, We believe the adoption of a uniform series of reading books to be of vital importance to the success of the common schools of our country we the committee upon this important question beg leave to report that we have have had the matter under careful consideration and after thoroughly examining Appleton's series of readers we do recommend their adoption by the association to be used in the schools of the country. We regard them in many respects appearing to any series we have seen and we would call the special attention of teachers to the imspecial attention of teachers to the importance of using a series which has the elecutionary instruction within the body of the work and not at one side where but seldom used. All of which is respectively submitted.

STEEL IN HIS STOMACH. Possibly a Fatal Result of a Foolish

Trick. Rochester Morning Herald. Within a short time the performance of an old trick has been revived in this city. It is the mysterious passing of a bit of steel rope up the nose of the operator and through the head, causing it to appear at the back of the neck. The trick is very simple to those who are acquainted with it. During its operation the piece of steel, which is about three and one-half inches long, slightly larger than a darning needle, and pointed somewhat at each end, is inserted and pushed up the nose of the performer of the trick.

Within the past week a young man was doing the trick for the amusement of the crowd and had the steel in his nose. Suddenly he sneezed, and the steel, instead of being projected, was swallowed. The consequences showed themselves immediately in intense pains in the stomach, and he went to a physician for relief, but none could be obtained, and ever since he has been suffering from it. What the ultimate effects will be can not be stated now. At present he is a little easier, working at his trade as usual, and does not suf-fer so much as he did. The pin remaining in his stomach will probably cause his death sooner or later. The doctor who has the young man in charge is still trying to get it out, and it is to be hoped that his endeavors will not be fruitless.

Political Murders, North and South. Washington Post.

If the killing of Dixon in Mississippi made ten or twenty thousand Republican votes in Ohio, the killing of Judge Hayden, of Grand Rapids, Wisconsin, ought, by a parity of reasoning, to yield more than fifty thousand Democratic votes in New York. For the killing of Judge Hayden, who was a Democrat, by banker Cochran, who is a Republican, exceeds the Dixon mur-der in enormity and diabolism tenfold. Judge Hayden was shot in the back, as was Dixon, but he had arms with which to threaten or imper 1 the life of his Republican antagonist and when a pound or more of the buckshot was emptied into him he was standing in a door-way talking with his partner and awaiting his wife, who had just finished some rather elaborate preparations for the celebration of her husband's birthday. It will be seen, therefore, without the expenditure on our part of any vast amount of literary energy that there are greater dramatic possibilities in the Hayden case than in a dozen of the Dixon order. Judge Hayden had been for many years a thorn in the side of the Republican leaders of Wood county, Wisconsin. He was a man of ability, courage, convictions and following. He was rapidly strengthening and disciplining his party, and to this Banker Coch-rane—who was a Republican leader rane—who was a Republican leader—objected. After a series of operations, which, following bloody-shirt nomenclature, might be called "persecutions," he was driven from the city of Grand Rapids to a neighboring village, where he bought a newspaper, opened a law office, and proceeded to make himself unpleasantly energetic. For this, so far as is known. Mr. Cochrane loaded as is known, Mr. Cochrane loaded him with lead.

Now, what we especially desire to know, if anybody can inform us, is, how many tools there are in the North who will vote against the Republican party by way of rebuke for such an outrage as this we have described? Are there a thousand? Is there one? As uncertain as elections are now, the utter impossibility as even so much as guessing at a result would be insured if they were liable to turn on such events or be governed by such causes.

A Narrow Escape.

Wilmington Review, 27th. A gentleman who resides on Market street, near Fifth, met with a dangerous experience a few nights ago. was on his premises and heard some-thing which sounded to him like the noise made by the katydid. Listening more intently it struck him as the rattle of that venomous reptile, the rattlesnake. As this idea occurred to him he sprang forward just in time to escape a deadly bite, for the snale struck at the same time and fastened his fangs in the bottom of his pauta-loons, just over the heet of the shoe. By a glimmer of light which can e from the house he then saw the repti-glide toward the fence, through which it passed. A neighbor had stored son e wood in his yard on the previous day and it is supposed that the snake wis concealed in the wood. It certainly was a narrow escape.

THE UTES HEARD FROM PEACE COMMISSIONER ADAMS IN

The Women of White River Agency Delivered Up Safe-How Lieutenant Weir and Paul Humme Died.

THEIR CAMP.

Washington Post, 27th, CHICAGO, Oct. 26 .- The Times' special correspondent at General Merritt's camp, White River, telegraphs under date of October 24th as follows: "Merritt yesterday detached Major Sumner with five companies of the Fifth cavalry to make a further search for Paul Humme, one of the ordnance department, supposed to have been killed with Lieutenant Weir, near Grand River, October 20th. A battalion searched the place where Weir fell, when it was discovered that Indians were ahead. Sumner immediately threw out skirmishers, but was aston-ished at seeing two white flags displayed on tepee poles. Two horsemen dashed out of the Indian line, and, on approaching, Sumner found them to be General Charles Adams, of the United States postal service, and Count Dornhoff, first secretary of the German Dornhoff, first secretary of the German legation, accompanied by a body guard of some thirty Uto andians. The latter very prudently kept away from the soldiers. General Adams, acting as peace commissioner for the Interior Department, stated that he had come through both Ouray's camp, at the Southern agency, and the hostile main camp at Grand River, near Roan River. Sumner inquired relative to the affair in which Lieutenant Weir and Paul Humme lost their lives. They stated that a scouting party of ten warriors had come from the hostile camp to watch Merritt's movements, but with orders not to fight. They were en-watch Merritt's movements, but with orders not to fight. They were encamped near where Hall's party lunched, when they saw Weir and Humme go after deer. One of their men happened to be on foot aiming at the deer which Humme shot before he discovered the Indians. Immediately after he observed a warrior on foot making for his horse, and fired at and killed him. Then the surviving Indians opened fire and killed Lieutenant Weir, who had approached over a ravine on horseback, thinking to have a shot at the deer. He fell from his horse and never moved afterward. Humme, whose horse stampeded, returned on foot toward the hill, the party firing as he went. He received a shot through the right eye, but still kept on walking and firing. He received another shot clean through the head and died. He was killed a thousand yards southwest from where Weir was found. Then the Indians turned loose on Hall and fought Indians turned loose on Hall and fought him till night, losing one man, who was killed in the affair with him. The body of Humme was found and buried with military honors.

General Adams left Ouray's camp, at the Southern agency, Oct. 19th, reaching the hostile camp on the night of the chiefs, although he found much mourn-ing in the lodges because thirty-seven of their brave warriors were killed in the hot encounter with Thornburg's command September 29th. Gen. Adams said the Utes acknowledge that Thornburg's men fought heroically, but said that the Major undoubtedly provoked the fight, being desirous of whipping the Indians anyhow, as he said in council. Meeker and his male employees were killed a day or two after the Thornburg fight, probably October 1st. The chief said the agent had threatened them with chains and handcuffs when the soldiers came. This is why they placed a chain around Meeker's corpse. They also complained that Meeker re-They also complained that Meeker re-fused to give them supplies at the agen-cy unless they tilled the land. There were plenty of supplies, but the agent would not issue them. The women were taken prisoners with the children, and neither were harmed in any way. General Adams found them with the squaws in the smaller Indian camp and had them sent, under an escort of one of Ouray's chiefs and other individuals, to Lake City, Col., which point they will have reached in a few days. General Adams further says the Utes are desirous of peace, and claim that Meeker and Thornburg brought on the war. Having lost, including Hall's fight, thirty-nine of their best men, they considered things about even, and are willing to shake hands. They wished to surrender the women and children as a condition of peace, but Adams was peremptory in declining the proposi-tion, and they delivered them up untion, and they delivered them up unharmed without further conditions. After a proposal that the ringleaders of the recent outbreak should be given up the chiefs unanimously refused, saying the outbreak was not premeditated, and that all were implicated. So the matter of peace or war now stands, General Adams says the hostiles are encamped in a country utterly impress. encamped in a country utterly impreg-nable, and that four times the force at present here could not reduce them. Their main camp is about seventy-five miles south of this point. General Mer-ritt will immediately tolegraph for in-structions. General Adams and Count Dornhoff will go back with the Indians to the Southern agency. Everything is in a state of uncertainty. The body of Lieutenant Weir is going into Raw. of Lieutenant Weir is going into Raw-lins with a wagon train.

The Indians at first intended to kind Mesker only. Miss Mesker was in the well-house when the brother of Chief Johnson made a rush to capture her. Dresser, one of the White River employes, conceiving Miss Mesker's honor to be endangered, fired and killed the Indian. Dresser was shot dead on the Indian. Dresser was shot lead on the spot. The other white men rushed for the building and opened with rifles on the Utes, wounding several. The Indians then fired the building and should be the building and dians then fire i the building and shot the men one by one as they rushed out. Two Indians were killed in this affair. The exact number killed by Thornburg's men was twenty-three. As they wheeled and fired during their retreat to the wagons, Payne killed seven from his entret chments and Merritt's in funtry and evalry killed five during the skirmish on the morning of the resous.

soldiers and citizens have had thirtythree men killed up to the present General Adams says Plateau creek which has seven branches running through one of the most difficult countries in the world, will be the strong-hold of the Utes in case the war is prosecuted. Douglas, of all the chiefs, is the only one who wishes to return to the agency. The others all profess a desire for peace, but don't care about coming back. "Ute Jack" commanded against Thornburg, but claims to have had but 100 men. This is presumably a lie invented to glorify himself. General Adams, in conversation with Gen-eral Merritt, stated that the Indians, if eral Merritt, stated that the Indians, if attacked now, would raid the settlements of Northern Colorado, at least so, they expressed themselves. It is just as well for the people of that section to be warned of this. The Indians also say that Captain Dodge's company was watched by a strong party, but they didn't know of the Thornburg fight until after Dodge joined Payne in the entrenchment. General Adams says the Indians are not very well armed,

ABOUT $4,300,000 of North Carolina's old bonds, or a third of the recognized debt of the State, have been exchanged for the new issues authorized by the Legislature, and Governer Jarvis is confident that all the old debts will be refunded .- Springfield Republican.

After belaboring us on the score of repudiation, and showing such an intimate knowledge of North Carolina's finances, it is exceedingly strange that the New York Tribune hasn't vouchsafed us a word of information on the subject.

TALK about the atrocities of Libby and Andersonville prisons! We will venture the assertion that no Union soldier can be found in the whole country who will say on reading the description of the atrocities of the Milwankee House of Correction that they ever experienced treatment that would in anyway compare with that related in the Milwaukie Sentinel-and one was in war time with provisions scant, and the other in a time of peace with provisions in plenty and paid for. Let us hear no more of Southern atrocicies with Syracuse and Milwaukee staring us in the face.

THE Republican, Tammany and anti-Tammany parties have put forward separate local tickets in New York city. The Tammany ticket is headed with Colonel William R. Roberts, a former member of Congress, for sheriff, and William H. A. Gumbleton, who was removed as county clerk by Governor Robinson, has been renominated for that position. The anti-Tammany ticket is headed with Colonel Peter Bowe, an Irishman and a hard-fighting soldier during the late war, for sheriff, The New York Times declares that several candidates on the Republican ticket were Tammany Republicans during the Tweed era, and says, on the whole, the anti-Tammany ticket is the most respectable of the three.

THE elections yet to come off this year are as follows: Maryland, November 4th, State officers and members of the Legislature; Massachusetts, November 4th, State officers and members of the Legislature; Minnesota, 4th. State officers and members of the Legislature; New York, November 4th. State officers and members of the Legislature; Wisconsin, November 4th, State officers and members of the Legislature; Mississippi, November 4th, members of the Legislature; New Jersey, November 4th, members of the Legislature; Pennsylvania, November 4th, State treasurer; Louisiana, December 2d, on the adoption of the new constitution, also State officers and members of the Legislature.

AND right on the heels of General Ewing's defeat the Northern Radical press think the only chance of a Democratic success next year is through the nomination of General Hancock. We would like to ask in what manner the General's nomination would benefit the Democratic party? He would be abused for what he done during the war as well as what he done afterward. He would be called a traitor and the murderer of Mrs. Surratt. He would be classed as an imbecile during the war and a demagogue after. His really fine services would be ignored; his successes classed lucky chances. The North will not honor a brave Union general unless he is a Republican and the South is not strong enough alone to do it. If Governor Robinson carries New York next Tuesday the Democrats have their candidate already selected, even if he does not suit the Radicals, and if he is defeated we have Senator Bayard to fall back on.

ORGANIZE!

It was partially owing to assumption that the party was thoroughly organized that the Democrats lost Ohio-or at least fell into a palpable error as to the result, and let things slip along without making any real effortat correction. The following from the Washington Post is sound advice and seasonable:

The Democratic party is organized in but two States of this Union, New York and Indiana. The Republican party is efficiently organized and splendidly disciplined in every one of the Northern States. It was so splendidly and audaciously officered in 1876 as to be able to steal Oregon from us without even alarming our sentinels, to over-come the vote of California by a systematic series of frauds in San Francisco, and finally, in the garish light of day, after making boastful announcement of its purpose, to rob us of twelve electoral votes—so fairly cast for Mr. Tilden that all the world took notice of the fact—and turn so poor a piece of clay as Hayes from a minority into a majority candidate. The sum of all these declarations and observations, therefore, i

If the Democratic party is to succeed in 1880, it must organize efficiently and

THE NEW YORK ELECTION.

In taking up the subject of yesterday we shall next speak of the railroad ring. No portion of the Union, unless it was the District of Columbia in the glorious days of Grant and his friends. Shepherd, Babcock, Williams, Garfield, etc., has ever been so bedeviled with rings as New York, and the railroad ring has been and is now the most powerful. Under the Tweed administration it controlled the Legislature and the Judiciary. It was through the efforts of Mr. Tilden that Judges Barnard and Cardoza fell from their high positions, and others were trembling with fear that evidence against them would be discovered. Mr. Glenn, a Republican Assemblyman, whose party was in the majority in that house, arose and stated that he had been approached with a bribe of $300 to vote for a certain railroad measure, and demanded an investigation. His colleagues jeered him until he was driven from the chamber. These things opened the eyes of the people, and the companies had to cover up their tracks. But their influence is none the less felt. The Erie road controls the vote of its employees. This accounts for the hostility to Governor Robinson at Elmira, his home s point which is sedulously made by the Republican and bolting organs, and which tends to mislead meets, to create for the ex-President those not acquainted with the facts. the life office of "captain-general,"

Erie: also a stockholder in the rolling, mill; as he pronounces so must the employees vote. James W. Husted, who ives in Westchester county and controls Rockland, is Vanderbilt's accredited agent, with Thomas G. Alvord, of Onondaga, as assistant. These two men engineer the New York Central and Hudson River roads for every job to be obtained through the Legislature, and it must be acknowledged they have so far done their work well. They control the railroad vote in every county on the eastern side of the Hudson from New York to Rensselaer, and thence west in every county through which the Central runs. To offset this influence there is a thickly settled backlying farming country, and the inhabiants are opposed to taxation discriminating in favor of the railroads. Here will be one source of Governor Robinson's gain from the Republican ranks. as he is opposed to legislative railroad obs of all kinds.

The insurance ring is headed by General George H. Sharpe, of Ulster, a man without influence outside of his own Assembly district. The General would like a Congressional seat, but the Democratic county of Greene and the southern portion of Ulster have no particular use for him in that connection. He is a shrewd man, an old custom house official, and the insurance men pin their faith on him, for they know that no rotten company, no dishonest State superintendent, will go by the board as long as he is in position. They furnish the "sinews," and the money is placed to advantage at election times. Those who have lost by rotten companies are ill inclined to support these thieving associations, and will probably throw their weight against the continuance of such swindles. There are several counties that are overburdened with taxation resulting from the mania for bonding towns to aid in the construction of certain railroads under the belief that they would develop the resources of their respective counties. Notably among these are the counties of Sullivan, Ulster, Delaware, Chenango and Cortland, Taxes laid on these roads cannot be collected; the towns are ground down with taxes to meet the interest on their bonds and provide for a sinking fund to meet their payment. The Republican leaders have heretofore worked this card with good effect; whether or no it will be good this year remains to be seen.

And so the matter stands: The Dem ocrats will hold their natural vote minus the Erie railroad influence and the Tammany defection, and will gain largely from the farming districts where Governor Robinson's economical measures are stated to be well understood. They will also draw from the "scratching" Republicans for the head of the ticket, and as Mr. Kelly and his friends claim they have nothing against the remainder of the nominees, it will about make the account square

From the present standpoint the election appears as if it would be very close. But it is imperative for Mr. Tilden's interests that he shall carry the State. The fight is against Mr. Tilden. and there is no way of disguising it. He must win, or else retire from the Presidential field. The position he takes that he can lose this year and win in the next is not tenable.

Mr. Tilden is not over popular in the South. He has only been advocated on account of his supposed availability, one strong point advanced being his ability to carry New York. If he fails in this it behooves the Democratic party to advance a man who can carry New York as against Mr. Conkling's influence and discipline; and the man who would be generally acceptable to the New York Democracy, on account of his pure public life as well as his sound financial belief, is THOMAS FRANCIS BAYARD. With the name of ex-Governor PALMER, of Illinois, added, the ticket would carry an Electoral vote of an even 200.

POLITICAL NOTES

It would be interesting to know why the New York Republican organs, which say in their news that the independents are making no progress, find it necessary to devote a column or two of editorial a day to laborious proof that the scratchers are all wrong.-Springfield Republican.

The Republican State committee, over which General Arthur presides with grave dignity, don't exactly relish the incoming of Sherman and Blaine. If there is to be any Republican boom in this State the committee intend that no part of it shall pass to the credit of either Sherman or Blaine. With this distinct understanding the committee are willing to let Sherman, Blaine, and even Evarts render all the aid in their power toward getting up a Cornell-Conkling-Grant boom.—New York

Vice-President Wheeler says he accepted Cornell against his own judg-ment, because a majority of the conwention the ght differently, "bowing always to the principle which underlies our form of government." This is a pretty wide stretch of the principle that the majority rules. Is it to be accepted in all the voluntary associations and relations of life?—Noningerial

When Mr. Evarts throws himself into the arms of the so-called stalwarts, if he ere a representative man, what he says might make many persons pause and consider. But Mr. Evarts is, in fact, merely one of those lawyers who have so frequently made the mistake of supposing that because they are great at the bar they must be great upon the restrum also. These, when they speak for a party and a partisan cause, cannot avoid speaking as if they were defending a client .- Battimore Sun. In our judgment, the proposition that the re-election of General Grant is in any sense essential to the safety of the country, is the most dangerous and unrepublican idea that has recently been broached in our politics. No man knows better than General Grant bimself that this is a government of the peo-ple by the people, and not a govern-ment of the people by a man. No one would resent sooner than he, judging by the modesty of his demeanor hitherto, the assumption that any man is essential to the "delivery" of the country, or to the enforcement of its laws in time of peace.—Golden Rule.

Grant for "Captain-General."

Baltimore Sun. The Atlanta Constitution having published what is called "an extraordinary article" commenting upon "rumors" that there is "a movement" at the South to nominate Grant for the Pres.dency with plenary powers, the Washington Sunday Gazette tries to "trump" the Atlanta paper by recommending the Southern members, when Congress General (the Lord only knows how he acquired the title) A. S. Diven, also resides at Elmira; he is a director of the with "a salary ample to maintain the dignity of the station." The idea of nominating Grant for the presidency, "without regard to party," is not a new one. It was put forward by himself and his fiends in a very plausible way in 1867. Then General Grant wanted to be the nominee of both parties at the President of the whole country. After four years of his service in the Presidency, however, it was thought expedient for the South to appropriate dient for the South to support the candidacy of a Republican whose chief claim to their suffrages was his sincere desire "to shake hands across the bloody chasm," As to the proposition to make General Grant "captain-general" the title smacks rather too much of Cuba, with this difference, that the captain-general in Cuba only serves during good behavior or until a new administration comes in while our cap-tain-general would hold a lucrative office and be the commander-in-chief of our armies for life. It is not exactly plain why Southern members of Con gress, in view of any imagined expediency, should be advised to create new sinecures, with large salaries attached to them. The Southern members of Congress have usually been the men who construed the constitution strictly, and they will probably find it safest to continue to do so. The "American idea" of government and society, upon which Mr. Evarts and Mr. Chittenden have lately dwelt so strenuously, does not seem to contemplate the payment of wages to any one who does not earn them. Our generals, lieutenant-generals, major-generals, brigadier-generals, etc., already authorized by Congress, give us quite bother enough without handicapping them all with a "captain-general."

"Big boys" taught us many kinds of wickedness.

A "big boy" is a boy who has learned to smoke and chew tobacco. Used to hang around and hear men's talk on mysterious subjects. N. B .-Grown up folks always seem to forget that the smaller a boy is the bigger are his ears and eyes. Parents are not to be trusted. If you tell them the truth about yourself they lick you. The premium is on dishonesty. Parents are useful to feed and clothe a feller and give him Fourth of July money. Otherwise they are in-

A Whale Story.

Wilmington Review, 27th. A gentleman who resides on Masonboro Sound at certain seasons of the year, and whose veracity is beyond question, informs us that within the last few days while two fishermen had their nets spread outside of the Masonboro Inlet they saw a commotion in the water near the slue, and in a few minutes they discovered that a huge whale which was heading for the sound through the inlet had struck a shoal just outside of the inlet and in flounder-ing around, before he succeeded in getting off, his fin stood up to the height of fifteen teet, and his tail, which they caught a glimpse of, they most solemnly aver would measure fully eight feet through. Verily this must have been the monster of the great deep. We deem it but proper to add that the gentleman of unquestioned veracity mentioned above received the information second-handed, but the party from whom we hear of the story is a very reliable person indeed.

The Country at Ease.

New Orleans Democrat. At the recent meeting of Governors in Philadelphia much interest was manifested throughout the country to know just what the Governor of North Carolina would say to the Governor of South Carolina. The published proceedings did not solve this interesting matter, and a Herald commissioner, determined to know what occurred, sought and obtained an interview with the South Carolina dignitary. Governor Simpson at once removed all doubts upon the subject by informing the interviewer that Governor Jarvis said the proper thing to him at exactly the proper time, and that they had parted with mutual and increased esteem.

Grant Outwitting His Rivals.

New York News. General Grant has manifested greater skill and tact in making approaches to the Presidency than he ever exhibited in planning a siege. There is more military genius displayed in his two years' movement on Washington, with no other assistance than a newspaper correspondent at his elbow, than he ever exhibited at the siege of Vicks

SALT RHEUM. Life a burden from the sufferings caused by this terrible disease.

MESSES. WEEKS & POTTER—Gentlemen:
Please accept my most grateful thanks for the great, very great, comfort I have re-ceived from the se of your CUTICURA. For the past eight or nine years I have been troubled with that dreadful disease, Salt Rheum, For months I would be helpless,—my very life a burden to me.

I have used everything in the shape of I have used everything in the shape of medicine, both external and internal, but with no effect.

My hands were in a terrible condition, the backs of them being all raw, and I thought I would try Cuttcura.

I tried it, and lo! it was as if a miracle had been performed, for I will take my oath that in three applications my hands were as smooth as a new-born babe's.

I presume there are hundreds, if not thousands, who know of my case, among whom ripesume there are infiniteds, into those sands, who know of my case, among whom there may be some one similarly affilicted, and if so I would earnestly advise him to give Cuticura a trial.

On the hands cured. A greatful letter.

MESSRS. WEEKS & POTTER—Gentlemen:—
Having been troubled for many years with the Tetter or Salt Rheum, I spent many a hard-earned doilar I was given a trial of your UTICURA, and, thank God, my hands are well. I never had anything do me good like that. like that.
You may put this in the paper and welcome, and may it do some other poor sufferer the same good it has done me! I am well known here, having lived here almost fifteen years and kept boarders for a living, and sometimes my heart was sore, thinking I would have to give up altogether with my sore hands, and having a small family to take care of; but oh! thank God, my hands are well, so I egain return thanks.

Out of Town. For the first time in the memory of man, Mr. I. B. He is out of town for the first time in many ing an article of family use as well. Every one knows that the Germans use it to a more or less extent, and to this fact they attribute their general good health as a race. The Cincinnati Daily Times in recounting the exhibits at the recent Exposition in that city devotes three-fourths of a column to a description of the Lion Brewery, of C. Windisch, Muhlhauser & Brothers, and pronounces the manufacture of that establishment the purest beer that is made. The brewery is built in accordance with the best-known plans; the very best grain that careful buyers can secure is purchased; the water is pe-culiarly adapted to the brewing, and twelve of the best malters (on whose skill to a great extent depends the quality of the beer) in the country are employed. The firm turns out from 75,000 to 100,000 barrels yearly. Mr. M. Bills, of the city bottling works, is Contemptible Action of a Conductor. Editor of the Raleigh News :- SIR: When the passenger train on the Raleigh & Gaston Railroad stopped at Franklinton, returning from the Weldon Fair, a half-witted young man stepped on board and entered into conversation with several gentlemen from Raleigh. The train started and the young man still conversed with his friends, the conductor being present; still, nothing was said to him about the fare. When the train reached Millbrook the conductor demanded the half-witted man's ticket, and when informed that he had neither money nor ticket, Mr. Conductor pulled the bell-cord to put the poor fellow off in the woods, when several, as many as seven of them citizens of Raleigh, offered to pay the fare, and tendered the money, but the conductor refused, and made the poor fellow get off, away from any station, in the woods. We have heard several who were present express themselves as very indignant at the conductor's action. Does the Railroad Company justify such action?

Detroit Free Press. A merchant doing business near the foot of Jefferson avenue, used to spend about half his time in explaining to callers why he could not sign petitions, lend small sums, buy books or invest moonshine enter es, but the time has passed, and it now takes him only two minutes to get rid of the most persistent case. Yesterday a man called to sell him a map of Michigan. He had scarcely made known his errand when the merchant put on his hat and

'Come along and I'll see about it." He led the way to a boiler-shop, two blocks distant, wherein one hundred hammers were pounding at iron, and walking to the center of the shop and into the midst of the deafening racket he turned to the agent and kindly shouted:

"Now, then, if you know of any special reasons why I should purchase a map of Michigan please state them at length."

The man with the maps went right out without attempting to state "reason the one," and the merchant tranquilly returned to his desk to await the next

A man who lives a short distance below the mill says Phillips passed through his potato patch and came over where he was digging. He was gathering specimens to show him, when suddenly he heard the gun fire, and turning, saw that Phillips had been shot, the whole load having passed through his body. How the shooting occurred he is totally unable to explain and Phillips was too badly injured to tell, and died within a half hour afterward. He says that when Phillips came up to him he had the gun on his shoulder and he can't say how it got into the position it must have been in when discharged. Phillips was a man of good character and had the confidence and esteem of his employers and fellow workmen.

Back from Kansas.

Franklin Patriot. This week several darkies who left this section some two years ago for Kansas returned. They say that they are thoroughly satisfied with the above State in every particular, and never again want to gaze on its soil. They are heartily sick of this great negro emigrating State. They footed it through from that State, and say that death and destruction are making their march through the entire State. They advise all colored people who are get-ting half rations to stay where they are, for they give it as a fact that over one-half of the colored people who have lately emigrated to Kansas are dying, starving, and walking back to their old homes.

It is indorsed by the direct personal testimony of men of national fame and strictness of speech. It is not too much to say that no medicine ever had such support in its favor as a specific. The word of any one of the eminent divines who underwrite this of the eminent divines who underwrite this antidote to dyspepsia has deserved weight. Their united witness joined with the experimental use and approval of the preparation by well-known physicians, zemoves all doubt. It is beyond question, a wonderful therapeutical agent.—Editors Religious Herald, Va.

Chaplain Randolph Macon College, Va.
Many cases of Dyspepsia within my knowledge have been cured by it. Cramps, Colles, Headaches and all sorts of pains from indigestion yield promptly to it. The cures of this sort are innumerable.

Rev. R. L. Dabney. LL. D., Col. Va.

It is highly esteemed here by the regular Medical Faculty and the people It is excellent for indigestion and flatulent colic, sedative, soporific, tonic, slightly aperient, without nausea.

Rev. B. F. Woodward P. E., Na. Cont.

About twelve years I suffered from Dyspepsia. Falling in with this remedy, I gave it a fair trial. After its use I could eat anything with impunity. I am sure I am indebted to this medicine for what of health and physical comfort I have had for the last and physical comfort I have had for the last sixteen years. I have known many since to be relieved by its use. Rev. Robert W. Watts, A. M., Va. I have used the mixture in my family for years, and have taken it for a Dyspepsia Colic, which threatened my life, and was cured, eating any diet without hurt. I have recommended it to other sufferers with happiest results. It is the best tonic and corrective I ever knew. For prostration from Dyspepsia or Liver Disease it is invaluable.

J.D. Eggleston, M.D., Va.
It is a highly valuable remedy, and is more extensively used than any single article in the whole list of medicines, so far as I observed in my practice, for all the complaint in families from indigestion. I use It and recommend it.
